

Accreditation in the MajorsPTI™ (3 Days)

This 3-day course, developed and conducted by Peter Geyer, is for professionals who seek accreditation in a questionnaire accurately identifying the 16 Personality Types based on the work of C.G. Jung.

It teaches core principles and fundamentals of Jung's approach to personality and the proper understanding and use of the Majors PTI in an informal learning environment. The course is suitable for groups of any size as well as individuals and is available via distance learning.

The Majors PTI was developed to identify the 16 personality types associated with Jung's work, as well as

Temperament and related frameworks by using the most up-to-date scoring methods. Dr Mark Majors, the developer of the MajorsPTI is a well-respected psychometrician. He worked on the revision of the Strong Interest Inventory and the most recent MBTI revision, which resulted in the current Step I and Step II Forms, and is a co-author of the MBTI Step II Manual (2001).

This Accreditation course focuses on using the MajorsPTI to establish Jungian personality type preferences (the four letter type code) with individuals and groups. It provides in-depth and original information not available in other settings. Topics include:

- Personality and C.G.Jung's developmental theory
- The 16 Types, and type dynamics
- Measuring personality: methods, types, traits etc
- Using, scoring and interpreting the Major PTI; ethics of use
- Applications: Training exercises/discussion points; presentation methods
- Any questions and issues relevant to the needs of participants

Assessment for Accreditation is by satisfactory completion of:

- A feedback process using MajorsPTI results
- A series of relevant short-answer questions (open-book, may be taken home to complete)
